

Joining The IIA is an investment
in your career and the profession.

Connected. Knowledgeable. Confident.

The IIA is the internal audit profession's global voice, recognized authority, acknowledged leader, chief advocate, and principle educator. With a network of more than 190,000 members in 170 countries, The IIA is the largest global organization representing internal auditors today.

- The IIA has set the Standards followed by internal auditors around the world through the International Professional Practices Framework® (IPPF®).
- The IIA has partnered with more than 30 standard-setting bodies around the world such as the International Federation of Accountants, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, and U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Individually, nearly 160 North American chapters and more than 100 international affiliates work to enhance opportunities for members within their community. Collectively, The IIA is raising the profile and increasing demand for the internal audit profession among key stakeholders. Nationally and globally, we:

- Promote the value of internal auditing to key stakeholders.
- Connect colleagues across the globe to share best practices and real world solutions.
- Assist members in their professional development with essential training and certification.
- Ensure members remain informed of the latest professional news, trends, and issues that will impact their work.
- Advocate for our profession legislatively.
- Feature career opportunities at every level and in every industry, from Fortune 500 companies to public sector organizations.

Join The IIA.

“My IIA membership allows me to connect with internal audit colleagues across the globe and to discuss topics that matter most to me. I get real-time answers on issues I’m dealing with now which makes me a stronger professional and more valuable to my organization.”

Confidence Through Credentials

The IIA's certifications, including the CIA® certification, are the most prestigious in the internal audit industry. Studies show employers recognize the effort, compensating professionals with IIA certifications better than their uncertified counterparts. Ultimately, earning an IIA credential will:

- Increase your potential to earn as much as 40%* more.
- Demonstrate your commitment to professional success.
- Help you earn credibility and respect in the field.
- Significantly improve your internal audit skills and knowledge.
- Build your confidence as an audit professional.

Confidence Through Leadership Development

Through The IIA, you'll find opportunities to develop and hone leadership skills and to showcase your talents to fellow professionals and potential employers. IIA volunteer leaders receive training, professional recognition, and opportunities for continued growth that is difficult to get elsewhere.

In addition, there are opportunities to demonstrate your leadership skills and expertise by speaking at conferences and events and contributing to industry and professional publications. We also invite you to volunteer at your local chapter, mentoring the next wave of internal auditors by recording a short video of presentations and submitting them to Audit Channel to share with future generations.
