Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management

Ms. Michael C. Redmond
CEM, MBCI, FBCI, PMP, MBA, PhD
Objectives

- Less downtime and increased productivity
- Adherence to regulatory standards
- Greater flexibility
Today's World

Organizations are made up of systems with many layers and interdependencies.

Sound Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management practices address all of the capabilities within an organization or extended enterprise, integrating the various components, including people, processes, and technology.
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management

Assess Risk

- Project Initiation and Management
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management
Assess Risk

- Risk Evaluation and Control
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management

Assess Risk

- Business Impact Analysis
Determine and guide the selection of alternative recovery strategies for recovery of business and information technologies within the recovery time objective, while maintaining the organization's critical functions.
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management
Architect Solution

- Developing Business Continuity Strategies
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management

Architect Solution

- Emergency Response and Operations
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management

Architect Solution

- Public Relations and Crisis Coordination
Developing and Implementing Business Continuity Plans
Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery Management Architect Solution

- Developing Business Continuity Strategies
- Emergency Response and Operations
Monitor and Test

- Awareness and Training Programs
Monitor and Test

- Maintaining and Exercising Business Continuity Plans
Traditional Disaster Recovery and Business Continuity Planning

- Business continuity plan (BCM)
- Disaster recovery for Technology
Enterprise High Availability - Design, implement and maintain 24x7 availability where needed.
service level management
Summary & Questions
Ms. Michael C. Redmond
CEM, MBCI, FBCI, PMP, MBA, PhD
Redmond Worldwide
www.redmondworldwide.com
585-270-5693